Picture This! Enjoy the Art of CIN's Graphics Group

"SYSOP WP"

Imagine, if you will, a tremendous art gallery, special-effects theater, and light show all under one roof. Now picture exhibits inside containing over 6400 items in 16 major areas, and more than 70 displays that would take days to explore. Add to this a reference library and even a cafe where you can sit and chat with the artists.

Jack Modjallal (DocJM)

Where would you find such a treasure trove you ask? How about right in your own home, on your computer monitor! The gallery we're talking about is all available on Q-Link when you enter the Graphics Computing Support Group, the featured forum this month in the Commodore Information Network. The pictures you see here are just a glimpse of the splendor that awaits you!

Begin your tour with the C-64 Software Libraries. The first library you come to is Works of the Masters, containing pictures by famous computer artists like Wayne Schmidt, James Hastings and Jack Modjallal (DocJM). The Masterpiece Gallery and Picture Perfect sections contain computer "paintings" that are excellent in their own right.

Next is Cartoons and Comics, which contains sections featuring comic strip and TV favorites, as well as Japanese Animation characters and others created as computer originals, like the T.H.E. FOX™ comic strip.

Moving along, we come to the Digital Darkroom, where you'll find digitalizations of everything, from the uploader's home photos to movie stars, and pictures converted from computers like the Macintosh. If you prefer a little more action, you'll surely enjoy the Animation section, featuring selections ranging from simple sprite and character animations to mind-blowing, eye-popping animations and music videos that push the "lowly" C-64 to limits you wouldn't have thought possible!

Like your artwork to be a bit more permanent? If so, be sure to check out the Printer Clip Art and Printer Art Collections sections. You'll find a huge selection of clip art here for use with such programs as Print Shop, Printmaster and Newsroom, as well as special run-and-print graphics and programs to convert files between most of the formats. Last in the C-64 section, but certainly not least, is the Graphics Toolbox, which is full of programs for displaying, printing and converting your pictures, as well as a special section devoted to programs to help you create your own masterpieces.

Kathy Wright (KathyW5)

Next Stop: The C-128 Galleries

Moving right along, you come to the C-128 Software Libraries, where you'll discover many pictures and programs that display the unique graphics power of the 128. These range from 40-Column Basic Pictures and Patterns and Effects sections to special RAM Expansion Unit (REU) and Basic 7.0 sprite animations.

It's in the 80-Column section, however, where the graphics power of the 128 truly shines. Here you'll find artworks, animation demos and programs with resolutions that rival those of the Amiga! This includes pictures created with UltraHires and its successor, Basic 8, the fantastic 3D graphics, and animation language extension for the C128.

Chat With The Artists

In addition to the libraries, the graphics group has several informative message boards and a special chat room, the Starving Artists' Cafe, where you can drop in to find answers to your graphics questions or just chat and have a "brew" with the room host or one of the many artists who often drop by.

In addition, the group holds conferences on special topics, new products and uploads every Sunday night at 9 p.m. (Eastern Time). There's also a special section in the Graphics group devoted to articles and reviews that will help you use and choose your graphics programs and tools.

On behalf of the Graphics Support Group, SYSOP WP, SYSOP PH, SYSHELP JBEE, and the Cafe hosts, we cordially invite you to drop in anytime and find out why we say, "You don't have to have an Amiga to make it possible!"

NOTHING PUZZLING ABOUT IT

Q-Link's Puzzler Is a Winner!

You're on edge as you and other contestants anxiously wait in the Lounge for a turn onstage. Tension grows as you eye each other, trying to size up the competition. You glance up at your image in the television monitor. Does your hair look all right? Maybe you'd better change it. Should you be an innocent blonde, or go for the bold, red-bearded lumberjack look?

For this game, you decide to become a one-eyed, green-tentacled alien. You take a deep breath as you enter the Studio to try your skill at guessing the word puzzles. As you step onstage to your podium and the puzzle's clues are revealed, you notice that your opponents aren't anything like the contestants that you've seen on other game shows....

Welcome to Q-Link's new multi-player, graphic game, Puzzler! It's the game where you and other Q-Link members square off in a graphic version of People Connection's popular "Wheel Watchers Show," complete with brain-straining puzzles, hand-wringing opponents, and an element of chance with every turn.

In order to join the fun of Puzzler, you must have the Super Q disk and the Puzzler software. You'll find them both online in Just For Fun — just download each file onto a blank, formatted disk. Then come to the special Studios in People Connection where Puzzler is played.

Create a "Contestant" and Take Your Place Onstage!

With Puzzler, you get to create your own unique contestant image (either online in the Puzzler Lounge, or offline using the Puzzler Contestant Editor). You can accept the image you're assigned by the computer, or select one of 15 other possible "looks" you can choose from the Puzzler Editor menu.

"MISS JULES"

As you enter the game, your image will appear behind a podium along with up to three other contestants. You can signal your pleasure or irritation with others by manipulating your facial expressions as you play. Just be careful at whom you stick your tongue out; they may retaliate by throwing a pie in your face!

Pull the Lever, Guess the Puzzle and Win!

The pies are just part of the Puzzler fun. When the puzzle appears and the general subject is identified, contestants take turns pulling the handle of the onstage slot machine. That determines how many points each letter they guess correctly is worth. But watch out — if you land on "Lose," you'll lose all your points as well as your turn! You could also land on a picture of a pie. Accumulate pies to throw at other contestants and deduct points from their score. Don't worry, you don't need a good aim to splatter your opponents' faces!

Correctly guess each letter of the puzzle to reveal a final answer. The player who completes the puzzle first wins!

The Puzzle Editor lets you try your hand at creating word puzzles of your own in your choice of categories: People, Phrase, Thing, Event, Place, Occupation, or Title. You even might want to use a private joke between you and a friend for one of the puzzles.

You can use the Puzzle Editor while you're offline and upload your entries to Q-Link. If we use them, your screen name will be beside your puzzles during the game. Puzzles will change every few months. Who knows? You may find that your puzzle is being played by thousands of other Q-Linkers!

Visit Just For Fun to download your copy of Puzzler and get complete information on the game. You won't want to miss out on a moment of the puzzle-solving, pie-throwing fun!

Club Caribe

Happy Birthday, Club Caribe!

Q-Link's Online Vacation Resort Celebrates a Year of Fun and Adventure...are YOU enjoying the sights and gentle breezes of the Island?

WILL JARRED

Club Caribe, the island resort where you can get away from your everyday cares to swim, sightsee, take in a show, and chat with other tourists, is now a year old. If you haven't visited the Club lately, you're in for lots of surprises!

Don't miss the fun of celebrating Club Caribe's birthday the island way! Download Caribe tonight in Just For Fun's Gaming Connection.

Ever since vacationers first discovered the island last summer, the staff at Q-Link's interactive resort has been listening to your suggestions and adding new regions and events galore. As a result, the island paradise has more than doubled in size, and there are more island activities than ever for vacationers to enjoy. To celebrate one year of action in paradise, there's a special "20 Days of Caribe" contest guaranteed to challenge your mind and, maybe, line your pockets with prizes.

The Way We Were — And Are Today

The first guests to grace the shores of Club Caribe discovered its luxurious beaches, its friendly pubs, its fabulous Shopping District and the notorious Sea Caves. Today, the main resort area also boasts a Football Stadium, Penguin Race Track, and Volleyball Courts.

For the more adventurous islanders, try your luck in the recently uncovered "Pirate's Lair!" Rumor has it that a secret passageway in the Lair leads to a "Labyrinth" guarding the gateway to the Badlands - But beware! Although great riches can be found there, vacationers have found themselves caught in a maze that can entrap them for hours.

Get back to nature as you roam Caribe's forests, sea caves, and beaches (dare to go bare at the famous Nude Beach!) Play games at the arcade, or join the love of your life in one of the hot tubs. There are regularly scheduled Club Caribe events too, so you can attend a performance at Costello's Comedy Club or be part of a trivia game at Quiz Shows, Inc. (check the Update Calendar of Events for dates and times).

Over the past year, Guests from all over the U.S and Canada have enjoyed this joystick-controlled alternative world. From the moment you land on the sands of Caribe, you'll find that it offers more than just a place to relax - it has its own environ-

In honor of Caribe's Birthday, the CCG's (Club Caribe Guides) have put together a contest full of fun and prizes. Extra! The SUN Shines in Club Caribe

Even a Caribbean vacation hideaway needs a newspaper to inform and entertain the guests, and Club Caribe has an excellent one—the Caribe SUN.

A few short months ago, "CCG Khoona" asked "Jzer0" to become the Editor and "...make the SUN more fun!" This task was only accomplished with many loyal friends helping. With their continuing work, each issue now averages about 40 pages.

Each SUN contains legends, poems and stories that will help you understand the background and history of Club Caribe. Puzzles, riddles, and contests are often included that allow clever readers to earn extra tokens to spend in Caribe. Articles and regular columns about island life help visitors make the best of their time on the island. And comic strips, cartoons, and Caribe rumors have recently been added, making each new issue something guests won't want to miss.

Enter Club Caribe any evening to read up on what's going on. Ask any CCG, and they will tell you how to get your own copy of the SUN.

— "Jzer0" (William E. Moore)

Solve the Mystery of The Great Q-Link Art Caper

"EILEENC"

It was a relatively quiet night in People Connection. Many of the regular PC dwellers were milling around between the Lobby, Bonnie's Bar and the Trivia room — just another Friday night in late June.

Then it happened.

Shortly after 10 p.m. on June 29, after the last art patron had left, a thief slipped into the all-new Le Chez Art Gallery, located in Just For Fun's QSociety, and iced all of the paintings on display. The guard on duty at the Le Chez recalls seeing a shadow outside the Gallery at around 10:10 p.m., but otherwise, authorities have no clues and no suspects in the crime.

Online art critics and patrons are in an uproar over the disappearance of the fine collection, which had been appraised at over 300,000 Plus Hours. Works taken from the prestigious Gallery include "Whistler's Q"; "Q Masterpiece"; "Mona Q"; and "A Starry Q."

Crime Re-creation Planned for July 26

Authorities plan to re-create the crime in an attempt to unravel the mystery in a dramatic re-creation to be held at 10 p.m. sharp on Thursday, July 26 in the LE CHEZ GALLERY room of People Connection. Fine champagne and hors d'oeuvres will be served in an effort to replicate the festive mood that pervaded the Gallery on the night the paintings were lifted.

Meanwhile, a substantial reward of 10 Plus Hours is being offered to the 'Linker who provides authorities with information leading to the capture of the hooligans responsible for this unparalleled heist. You are asked to post all leads and clues on the Art Heist Hotline message board, located on the first floor of the Le Chez Gallery. The recipient of the reward will be announced during the crime re-creation on July 26.

Gallery to Rebuild Online Art Collection

In addition to offering the reward, Le Chez officials are looking for talented artists to hang their works in the now empty Gallery.

Post your graphic design on the Masterpiece Galleria message board, so that Q-Link members can once again enjoy the world of fine art. At the end of July, blue ribbons and 10 Plus Hours will be awarded to the top two artists.

Take a byte out of online crime and bring new life to Q-Link's art world by helping to solve this mystery!
